

License type

M2k, Structural Design Suite

All licenses sold for the use of M2k software products are offered in an “individual version” basis, meaning that after you purchase a license for one of our products, you will be able to install and use one copy of the purchased software product on a single compatible computer.